To: DALB CUSTOMERS

From: BOBBY WEATHERHOLTZ, VICE PRESIDENT

Re: ESSENTIAL BUSINESS –EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 9-20

Yesterday West Virginia Governor Justice issued executive order number 9-20 that declared a stay at home or maybe otherwise known as a shelter in place order. As such, and in accordance with this order DALB remains open and fully operational as per the essential business definition outlined in this order. The outline clearly defines DALB's position in the supply chain throughout section 3-C, 3-H, and 3-R. DALB is an established printing, thermoforming, and plastics fabrication company located in the eastern panhandle of WV. DALB has been in business for some 38 years supplying an assortment of customers spanning markets such as; beverage dispensing equipment parts and marketing, automotive, medical device and consumables, aerospace, and agricultural/heavy equipment.

Amidst this coronavirus pandemic, we are happy to report that DALB has instituted several precautionary measures to ensure our workforce's safety. As the coronavirus (COVID-19) continues to evolve, we are protecting our employees by having them work remotely where practical, instituting a sanitation task force, restricting traveling and visiting guests to name a few.

Additionally, and with great honor I can say to you today, we will not only continue to supply our services to our longtime customers, but we will also be utilizing our extra capacity to assist the country on the war against this invisible enemy. As an essential business, that will remain open during the stay at home order, we feel compelled to assist further. DALB will be offering our fabrication and manufacturing expertise to assist in the country's effort to stop the spread of the coronavirus. Our capabilities will be being used to produce face shields and barriers that go to our medical professionals and our consumer facing essential businesses. DALB is a company you can rely on. Thank you for your business and the longstanding relationships.

Sincerely,

Bobby Weatherholtz, Vice President
